Death Halts Boys' Wild Joyride

Here is the end of what may have started as a boyish prank. A stolen car, spotted and pursued by police, ran out of control from the end of Cook Street across Dallas, and plunged 40 feet off a cliff to the beach. In it were four boys, aged 15, 13, 13 and 12. The car belonged to one of them. One of the four, 13-year-old Gunnar Stobbe, was killed; two were seriously injured, one less gravely hurt. (Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Ottawa Cuts Immigration

OTTAWA (CP)—The government Friday ordered restrictions on immigration into Canada, which totalled 175,000 men, women and children during the first six months of this year—a 44-year high for such a period.

It said that for the rest of this year:

A Wreath For Godiva

COVENTRY, Eng. (Reuters)—Four men wearing black ties placed a wreath Friday at the base of the Lady Godiva statue in Coventry's busy city centre. A black-edged card attached to the wreath read: "In affectionate remembrance of British girls missing, presumed dead, one year ago today when Nasser grabbed the canal."

Arabs Cheer Dollar Sneer

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (Reuters)—President Nasser told a wildly cheering crowd Friday that the Egyptian people will see to it Egypt is ruled by "from Cairo and not from Washington." The largest group during the history of the nationalization of the Suez Canal, the Egyptian people declared, "Dollars will disappear in the corresponding period not buy Arab nationalism." The last year, and $0.563 for the huge crowd roared approval. (whole of 1956.)

Exams 'Savage' So Pupils Smoke

LONDON (Reuters)—A whereby a young man's career is at the mercy and caprices, if not generosity of heart, of examination of the younger generation. "None of my examiners is interested in making a correlation study, therefore between the incidence of smoking and the examination failure rate in grammar schools and universities." Similarly the cult of smoke in the pipe of peace showed verities.

How Big Was John D.'s Fish?

Friendly difference of opinion between Mrs. John Diefenbaker, wife of the prime minister, and Defence Minister Pearson on the size of a fish caught by Mr. Diefenbaker during a northern Saskatchewan holiday, produces chuckles from Hon. J. M. Macdonnell, minister without portfolio, and Northern Affairs Minister Harkness. Mr. Pearson counters Mrs. Diefenbaker's gesture with a two-inch spread. (CP)

Real Fighting Candidate

More Campaign Promises!

MANILA (CP)—Raymundo O. Palarca of Manila interrupted the torrid Philippine presidential race yesterday with an "anything you can do I can do better" challenge to the official candidates.

"Presidential aspirant" Palarca, who hopes to run as a candidate for the first religious party, said the nation should choose the man most physically fitted for the post. He proposed to run a marathon race with any Filipino or foreign athlete to play Filipino Davis Cuppers Raymundo Deyro and Felisimo Ampen in separate tennis matches "one in the morning and one in the afternoon." He met the flyweight boxing champion of any country in a 25-round bout. He sponsored a fight to the finish match between any staff member of a local radio station and a "Captain Ben" whom he identified with a religious sect. In addition to setting the rules of the campaign contest, Palarca presented his platform: abolition of congress and the judiciary; rich and poor alike to have checkbooks; implementation of the "one world" concept; total destruction of arms of all kinds.

Spelling Error Cheats Gallows

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters)—A man who once escaped hanging because he has a complicated name learned Friday he has escaped the gallows again for good. Nkomo Jim Nzimande was one of 23 natives sentenced to death last year for the slaying of five policemen during a native uprising. A new one was drawn up and his execution was rescheduled. But he was saved from the gallows by a spelling error in the warrant. The judge ruled that Nzimande was not present at the time of the attack on the police. He will be released.

Boy's Death Spurs Shocked Questions On Police Chases

Ages Upset Police

By ERITH M. SMITH

A buzz of questions ran through Victoria yesterday in the wake of the chase-inspired crash at dawn which killed one 13-year-old boy and sent three others to hospital.

The tragedy that killed young Gunnar Stobbe, and seriously injured his young friends, shocked all of Victoria.

The four were occupants of a car which had been reported stolen. At the time of the crash, 40 feet to the beach off the foot of Cook Street at Dallas, the car they were riding was being chased by police cars.

The same questions were heard all day long:

Why do the police chase stolen cars at such speeds? Was that rate of speed necessary?

Why don't they just wait until the car is abandoned, as is almost always the case?

Would they chase a stolen car at that rate of speed during the day?

Why chase a bunch of little boys at all?

WANTS PROBE

Alfred J. Donald Smith, M.P.A., was one of those asking the questions. "I would like to see a full investigation made," he told The Daily Colonist.

The shocked mother of one of the boys did not blame police for her son's injuries. "They were just doing their job," she said.

Search Police Chief W. A. Pearson spoke up for the police. "Unfortunately," he said, "it's usually a case of being if you do and wrong if you don't chase stolen cars."

"For one thing, suppose a pursuing police car decides a chase is getting too fast for general safety, and stops not."

A block in taxi traffic on the stolen car may hit another vehicle in a pedestrian. Then the police are blamed for not having stopped it.

"Yesterday's dreadful accident is the other side of that picture. The chase continues with the hope of cutting off the stolen."

Oman Rebel Raids Suspended by RAF

SHARJAH (Arabian Trucial Coast) (Reuters)—After three days of cannon and rocket attacks the RAF announced yesterday it is suspending further action against Oman rebels.

The news came shortly after RAF Venom jet fighters attacked a Fort at Tanuf, seven miles north of the rebel Imam of Oman's headquarters at Nizwa.

There was no immediate information about the period of suspension, but observers here thought the attacks have swung some support back to the sultan from tribesmen who rallied recently to the Imam.

The sultan's red flag was seen today flying over the desert fortress of Iki, attacked in the first jet strikes Wednesday.

With no news of any ground activity, it was presumed here that the flag was raised by the occupants of the fort, replacing the white emblem of the Imam which fluttered there as the RAF went into the attack.

Four Venom fighters took off in the first strike today, but one turned back with engine trouble. The other three reported they fired rockets and shells into the centre of the deserted fort.

Suicide's Funeral...

Fanatic Sect Massed

KRESTOVA, B.C. (CP)—A three-day Doukhobor funeral for Mrs. Mary Gienger, 32, will end late today with a "farewell and burial" which is expected to attract most of British Columbia's Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.

Mrs. Gienger was found hanging from a beam in her home in this eastern B.C. town Wednesday. Freedomites blamed her death on the fact that her nine-year-old daughter Patsy is detained in the government's special school in New Denver.

The girl was allowed to return here Thursday after John Clarkson, superintendent at New Denver, granted her a temporary release to attend the funeral. She must return to the school Wednesday.

The traditional Doukhobor funeral started Thursday when Mrs. Gienger's body was returned after release by the Nelson coroner, Dr. H. H. Smythe, whose inquest into the death was adjourned to Tuesday.

A 24-hour vigil will be kept on the body in a hall while friends and relatives pay respect. The mass farewell will be staged this afternoon.

Freedomite spokesmen said about 500 visitors had arrived in Krestova by noon Friday.

More words of farewell to Mrs. Gienger will be spoken Sunday at a Sobranja (religious meeting).

Bath Traps Widow For Eight Days

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A 74-year-old widow was rescued yesterday from her bathtub where she lay paralyzed from a fall for eight days, during which neighbors could not hear her cries for help because of a blaring television set.

The widow, Mrs. Betty Schardt, lay face up in the empty bathtub with one arm twisted under her since the morning of July 18, when she turned the television up and went to the bathroom and fell. The blaring television drowned out her cries for help and also the yelping of her chi-huahua dog Keene, who was voiceless by the time police rescued Mrs. Schardt.

Neighbors finally called police when they noticed a pile of newspapers in front of her door. Mrs. Schardt was taken to French Hospital in "very weak" condition.

Province Cannot Relent

PREMIER BENNETT has propounded a simple and straightforward answer to requests of parents belonging to the minority Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect for the return of their children from the former sanatorium at New Denver where they are held as wards of the court under the Protection of Children Act. It is the only reply that could be made unless the government were willing to set aside laws which all other people of the province are bound to obey.

The children are there solely because the Doukhobites resisted, sometimes violently, all official efforts to see that they were educated according to recognized standards. They will be returned—not just for the summer vacation but permanently—if the parents pledge themselves to send the children to public schools, says the premier. No compromise could be entertained if the uniform laws of the province are to be respected and the edicts of its courts upheld.

Much maudlin sentiment has been aroused by the spectacle of young children being forcibly separated from their families. It is in fact a plain case of defiance of constituted authority—influenced by fanatical leaders perhaps, but nonetheless wilful. The children are the hapless victims not of society and its officials but of their parents' own perversity. The simple means of effecting reunion are at their disposal.

On conscientious grounds these unfortunate boys and girls could be withheld from the public schools legally if their parents arranged to have them educated at home or elsewhere to the satisfaction of the authorities. They have consistently refused to do so, maintaining an unyielding attitude to antagonism towards the principles of education accepted by all other Canadians. More than that, the parents while they had the children in their custody taught them to denounce and defy laws and customs of the land in which they choose to live.

No other country in the world could or would tolerate that. If British Columbia were to relent now it would have to discard the principle of compulsory education for all, repeal the School Act and over-ride the rulings of the courts—for no other purpose than to permit a handful of malcontents and misfits to have their own way.

Pioneer Papers Gerald Waring

By FRANK KELLEY

WHILE the Colonist was not B.C.'s

first-born newspaper baby, it was a close second, has more years to its credit than any other Journal in Western Canada and next year will be celebrating 100 years of existence, covering the story of this province to good purpose.

It was first issued in 1838, when its first publisher and editor made a deal with Bishop Demers, who had with him when he landed here in 1832 an old-fashioned hand press and a good assortment of type, with which he had planned to start a paper in the interests of his church as soon as possible. He did just that when a French nobleman, also a newspaperman, forced to flee from Paris because of political troubles, found his way to Victoria via California. He was Comte de Garro, who became Vancouver Island's pioneer editor. The Courier was printed in French, issued three times a week; but with scant patronage did not last long.

Demise of The Courier presented an opportunity for a colorful Nova Scotian named Smith, who had arrived here with the gold-seekers via San Francisco, where he had his name changed to Amor de Cosmos. In December, 1838, he founded the British Colonist, having acquired the press and type from Demers. First home of the paper was in a small frame building on Wharf, between Yates and Johnson Streets. Some years later it was moved to Government, where the Churchill Hotel stands. Next, move was to Broad, where it was published in the Colonist building until moved to its present location.

I remember de Cosmos well, was a chum of his nephew Robert, and now and then visited the home where he lived with his brother, McKay Smith, on Yates at School Street.

The gold rush to Cariboo started Victoria's first real move from trading post status to a lively town of many nationalities, arrivals from San Francisco mainly. Among them were Whitton, Towne & Company, who also started a paper in 1838, The Victoria Gazette. Policy of de Cosmos in criticizing the Colonial Government of Vancouver Island and Governor Douglas threatened the Colonist's existence, when the Hudson's Bay Company assisted the promotion of The New Westminster Times, founded by E. Hammond King and edited by Leonard McClure. The Times was later moved to the mainland, when Colonist editorials resulted in a suspension of publication.

In 1839 Douglas invoked an English law relative to newspapers under which certain sureties were required, a lack of which meant a fine of $50 for every issue. Unable or unwilling to post those sureties, de Cosmos on April 9, 1839, published an apology for the non-appearance of the paper on the previous Saturday. It was then that citizens got interested and subscribed sureties, as they interpreted the proclamation as an attempt to gag the press, the British Colonist.

Some time later de Cosmos was arrested by the sergeant-at-arms and brought before the Legislature charged with libelling Speaker Dr. Helmcken. Apologizing for that one he was released.

Another time, D. W. Higgins and J. E. McMillan who published The Chronicle were charged with libelling the member for Salt Spring Island. This barred The Chronicle reporters from the legislative press gallery. The Chronicle was published until 1866, when it was merged with The Colonist, Higgins becoming editor and publisher when de Cosmos became identified with The Standard. Higgins continued with the Colonist until 1886, when he sold it to W. H. Ellis and Al Sargison, who piloted it for years, eventually disposing of their interest to S. H. Matson.

Reports from Ottawa

THE meeting tomorrow between

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the American secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, will be a most important encounter. It will affect and influence at least the immediate future of Canadian-American relations.

Diefenbaker's public statements seem to have committed his government to a new, tough attitude towards the U.S. on trade matters. But the trouble is that on trade the U.S. can be tough right back.

However, an off-the-cuff remark by Diefenbaker on Tuesday indicates he may be tough on defence matters in an effort to achieve his trade objectives. And because of the facts of geography and sovereignty, the U.S. is at a disadvantage in this area of Canadian-American relations.

Important though Canada is to the U.S. as an export market and a source of raw materials, it is even more important strategically. Without Canadian co-operation there would be no northern radar lines to warn the U.S. Air Force of the approach of Russian atomic bombers, and no close defence liaison which in the event of Russian attack would make Canadian and American forces a well-drilled team.

In view of Canada's dependence on the U.S. for its own security, it seems inconceivable that the Diefenbaker government would withhold such co-operation. While Canada could survive as a neutral in the cold war, it would be at Moscow's mercy if the Russians could defeat the Americans in a shooting war. Canada's co-operation with the U.S. in joint continental defence planning and preparations helps guard against the latter possibility.

However, these objections do not apply to Dulles' "open skies" plan for Russian aerial inspection of the Canadian-American Arctic as a quid-pro-quo in a tension-easing East-West military inspection scheme. Ottawa has not yet agreed to this proposal.

It is in the light of these factors that one must assess L. B. Pearson's speech two weeks ago in which he said that any further U.S. restrictions against Canadian goods would make defence co-operation more difficult.

Significantly, Diefenbaker's reaction on Tuesday was that "Mr. Pearson's speech was worthy and was given at a time when it could not but be effective."

Dulles' main concern tomorrow likely will be to obtain assurance that there will be no diminution in Canadian co-operation with the U.S. in defence matters, and that Canada will go along with the open skies plan.

Diefenbaker's main concern will be trade. He wants, in this order, assurances that the Americans will stop under-selling Canadian wheat in foreign markets, stop restricting imports from Canada, and will co-operate with him in reducing the Canadian trade deficit with the U.S.

The former government sought these objectives too, but without much success. However, the Liberals used sweet reason rather than toughness, and never hinted that unless the Americans stopped hurting Canada economically, the U.S. would find Canada less co-operative in defence matters.

Is Diefenbaker bluffing? Dulles may think so, but he cannot be sure. He may well harbor apprehension that the new Canadian government, turning its eyes from Washington to London, could be carried a long way by its anger at the U.S. and its sensitivity on matters impinging on its sovereignty.

Secretary Dulles may conclude that it is a poor gamble to risk Canadian defence co-operation for the sake of selling a little more surplus wheat.

City Notebook

Shrinking the Debt

By ORMOND MARRION

A FEW letter-writers have suggested again in recent weeks that Victoria should at least explore the possibility of turning its garbage into fertilizer. One suggested that the Organic Corporation of America would be found ready to establish a garbage at no cost to the city.

The aldermen, and all who are distressed by the cans and rinds washed back ashore by wind and tides, would be happy if that were so, but unfortunately it is not.

The idea of garbage disposal by reduction has been looked into thoroughly on more than one occasion by the city engineer; in particular, the services offered by the Organic Corporation—and the terms—have been checked. The answer remains that this form of garbage disposal would be more costly than any of the other kinds considered.

The reason is that turning garbage into fertilizer, and then selling the fertilizer is an economical process where there is a ready market for the fertilizer, but an area like this can for practical purposes be considered to have none.

When an Organic Corporation plant goes to work on garbage, it is omnivorous. It turns everything, cans, bottles and all, into fine powder, so that almost as much comes out as goes in. For a city the size of Victoria that would be a lot of fertilizer to try to sell or even give away.

VICTORIA is making a name for itself across the country by reducing its debt while other cities are increasing theirs. Mayor Scutumpah's pay-as-you-go policy may have to be abandoned, it is true, when a new fire hall and garbage wharf have been built and the time comes to raise a new city hall; even sooner perhaps.

But recent events in Vancouver and Ottawa emphasize the remarkable difference between the present spending policies of Victoria and her sister cities.

In Vancouver this week a $105,000, five-year program of civic development was placed before council—actually a $135,000,000 program, but destined to be scaled down to Vancouver's borrowing limit of $105,000,000.

In Ottawa, city council passed a "capital expenditure budget for 1957" authorizing initiation of $21,850,000 worth of capital expenditures this year; the money to be borrowed.

Even giving the fullest consideration to the relative size of these cities, the figures make Victoria's rapidly dwindling debt look puny. Victoria's gross debt at the end of last year was $11,400,000, and has been shrinking at the rate of almost $400,000 a year.

The Vancouver program, prepared by the city's technical planning board, calls for $52,600,000 to be spent on streets, bridges, waterworks and new yards; $28,000,000 to be spent as the city's share of new school construction.

Also listed as necessary expenditures are $2,450,000 on street lighting, $1,000,000 on a fire boat, halls and fire equipment; $480,000 on new buildings and extensions for health and social services; $1,200,000 on new branch libraries, books and stock; $2,000,000 on new police and court facilities; $14,000,000 on new park sites and park development; $3,000,000 on purchase of Langara golf course.

Recommended for consideration are a downtown civic square at Georgia and Granville, $3,000,000; a small theatre to be added to the civic auditorium, $1,400,000; an organ for the auditorium, $68,000; acquisition of land for a civic centre, $1,000,000; new civic museum, $1,500,000; hospital improvement and development, $7,500,000; land purchases for industrial development and expressway, $6,000,000; slum clearance, $5,600,000.

While we Victorians are busy patting ourselves on the back for our thrifty ways, we might on second thought take time out to observe that postponing the spending of money could be a false economy in a growing community.

It would not have cost Vancouver $3,000,000 a few years ago to make a civic square at Georgia and Granville, nor $1,400,000 to add a small theatre to a civic auditorium.

With the Classics

Art thou poor, yet hast thou golden slumbers?

O sweet content!

Art thou rich, yet is thy mind perplexed?

O punishment!

Doat thou laugh to see how fools are vexed

To add golden numbers, golden numbers?

O sweet content! O sweet, O sweet content!

Work apace, apace, apace, apace;

Honest labor bears a lovely face;

Then hey nonny nonny—hey nonny nonny!

—THOMAS DEKKER

Unnecessary and Unsound

AT a cost which may reach $30,000 or more, the city council has finally decided after many changes of mind to adopt the Faustman plan of one-way traffic approaching the Fountain Circle as an experiment. If it turns out to be a flop, some of the money is said to be recoverable in the shape of traffic signals which may be used elsewhere. Even so, this seems a stiff price to make the public pay for a trial scheme which may or may not work and which a large body of opinion believes to be unnecessary anyhow.

The Colonist places itself in that group not because the one-way traffic plan and other modifications of the present flow would in any way affect its own operations and convenience but simply because of belief based on long observation that no such expensive "cure" is needed for a traffic situation that is infrequent, of very brief duration and of far less urgency than the day-long congestion in the centre of the city, about which the council as yet has done nothing.

Hour by hour throughout even the busiest days traffic flows into and out of the roundabout in an interlacing pattern without any trouble worth noting. In the late afternoon pressure builds up enough to cause delays, but the streams of traffic converging on the circus are efficiently sorted out by police officers stationed there for half an hour or so. During that one half-hour of the whole day columns of traffic may be stalled for a minute or two, seldom longer. Such delay is in no way comparable to the snarls of much longer duration which occur at intersections like Government and Yates, where a line of vehicles may be held up for five or six changes of signals.

In the hope of eliminating this inconsequential congestion at the Fountain the City intends to spend $30,000 on mechanical controls which will—not may—impede the flow all day long, unless someone is permanently posted there to switch the system on and off as traffic builds up or dwindles. Traffic which in slack periods now moves uninterruptedly into the roundabout will be held up needlessly by red lights for intervals as long as the delays occurring at the peak half-hour.

It is hard to see much sense in this decision—especially when the council has been offered by Alderman Curtis a simple alternative plan that would utilize existing by-pass streets, would cost nothing and could be modified or abandoned on the basis of experience.

Nepotism Is Archaic

NO service, no task and certainly no individual has ever been improved by nepotism, or the use of influence in any form to secure preferment. The Diefenbaker administration will be making no mistake if it continues as it has begun by resisting claims for party patronage based on the desires of office-seekers. Difficult as this may be to manage with complete party amity, it is a discipline which is a necessity of the times. Public business is a public trust, and today as never before it calls for training, efficiency and productivity. There can be small room for political "nephews" whose sole claim to preferment may be that their "uncle" is a good man in the party.

Canada's new prime minister has shown that he can crack the whip in his own party. Thus the assurance that the federal civil service will not be subjected to ebb and flow in partisan tides will not be an idle one. There is a corollary to bear in mind, however, and this is that it is just possible that there may be a number of foster "nephews" in public posts after the Liberals' 22 years in office. If the merit rule is to be made effective it must apply uniformly. For almost a quarter of a century federal appointment has been under one-party control. In that time it has been tripled numerically and extended radially in every direction, consequent on the expanding needs of the public service. A review of the merits might well be in order.

That is a task which no government might like to undertake single-handedly. The traditional means is to ask Parliament to appoint a committee to make its own survey. Much of the physical expansion of public service in Canada can be accounted for by the increase in population and other normal factors. If the merit system is to function, however, boon-doggling and boon-dogglers should be weeded out, as a form of padding on the public payroll for which there is little excuse.

Interpreting the News

Japanese Angry at Closure

By CHARLES M. MCCANN

United Press Staff Correspondent

JAPANESE feeling toward the United States has taken a decided turn for the better. At the same time, there is growing resentment against Soviet Russia.

The biggest development in Japanese-American relations was the decision of the United States to let a Japanese court try an American airman, William S. Girard, for killing a Japanese woman.

This was a matter of national pride. Before the final decision came, there was heated talk that the United States was trying to trample on Japanese rights.

There has been another development resulting from the United States decision to withdraw American combat troops from Japan. The "Yankee go home" slogan was long popular with a lot of Japanese people. Now, people in Japan are talking about the millions of dollars which the G.I.'s pour into Japanese economy.

It has begun to occur to them also that the withdrawal of the troops jeopardizes the jobs of a lot of Japanese people. Since the troop withdrawal decision was made, about 6,000 Japanese employed at American troop bases have been dismissed. Another 7,000 are expected to lose their jobs by the end of September.

About 127,000 Japanese are still employed by the American forces. Of these, about 70, 000 work for the ground forces which are to be withdrawn.

Provincial and city authorities face the loss of the various payments made by the United States forces for the use of firing ranges, drill grounds and other military establishments.

Resentment toward Russia is growing largely because of the refusal of the Soviet government to enter into a fishing agreement. Fishing is a basic part of the Japanese economy. Negotiations for a treaty which would permit Japanese fishing vessels to operate in waters off the Siberian coast have been stalled again and again.

To make the situation worse, Russia announced recently that an area of more than 6,000 miles off the naval base of Vladivostok has been closed to foreign ships and planes.

There has been a suggestion that the Russian decree was linked up with military security, but the area in question has been effectively closed to foreign shipping and aircraft without any decree.

It appears that the decree really was intended to exclude Japanese fishing vessels from an exceedingly valuable fishing ground. Japanese Foreign Minister Aichihiro Fujiyama announced this week that he proposed to send a strong protest to Moscow. Japanese newspapers are denouncing the Soviet decree as a gross violation of international law.

The Packsack

Take It Easy

By GREGORY CLARK

BY far the prettiest, most attractive place at our summer colony is owned by a man who never seems to exert himself. Yet the vigorous underbrush which, weed-like, seems to spring up and try to smother all the other cottages in the resort is always clipped to the turf; the trees in his groves are tidy and tailored; no random boards or logs encumber his beaches; no dank cartons embarrass his back porch. We know he does his own painting. And never a shabby plank is to be seen even on his boathouse, much less his cottage.

We neighbors envy him.

"How," we asked him, "do you get things done? At our place it seems we are always picking up things, always staging bees to tidy up..."

"That's it," he replied. "Bees. You fellows are all city men, with no sense of property at all. You expect the garbage men to keep your streets and side entrances tidy. You hire painters to come, once every so often, to do an over-all contract job of painting your houses. You employ a man to cut your grass, trim up your little flower beds. The garbage men come twice a week. The painters every two years. The gardener every two weeks.

Everything is in lumps and bunches. It goes against the grain of a city-bred man to just quietly keep things tidy all the time.

"Up here at the cottage your wives nag you to mow the brush and bracken, pick up all the junk, take away and burn all those old cartons. So, in a sudden burst of energy, you hold a bee. You devote a whole morning to mowing, clipping, carrying, piling, burning. And you figure that will do for the year. You don't expect to have to do any more tidying up in 1957."

"Well, after all," I put in, "I am on holidays..."

"Then, go ahead," said my neighbor, "live in the underbrush. Don't envy me. You asked me how I do it. I do it by picking up a little bit, every time I notice it; clipping the bracken and hazel brush whenever the fancy strikes me; cut off a branch now and then, when it gets out of line; toss away the driftwood as it comes, a piece at a time, onto my beach. In those furious energetic bees you indulge in, you work say four hours and get all sweaty, with blisters. I suppose all the five and ten minutes I spend, casually, wouldn't add up to four hours in the whole summer. As for painting, I wait until the spirit moves me, and do a half-hour now, a half-hour some other time. What the average man doesn't understand is: take it easy!"

Letters to the Editor

Premier in Error?

May I bring to the attention of your readers a mistake in a recent statement, made by the Hon. W. A. C. Bennett, to the effect that it is 78 years since this province was out of debt.

In fact, in 1907, just 50 years ago, my father, Robert G. Tatlow, was proud to bring down his budget announcing that the province was not only out of debt but had $7,000,000 surplus to their credit.

For the Handicapped

We would again appreciate the use of your columns to express our gratitude to the people of Victoria and district for their wonderful response to our appeal for discarded household articles with which to carry on our project.

In answer to the many questions which interested persons are asking, we would like to say that the discarded clothing, books, furniture and appliances that are repared provide opportunities for employment of the handicapped in our Goodwill workshops.

The possibilities for the disabled to learn useful trades in the many repair departments are tremendous. The record of performance in this regard by the many Goodwill-type sheltered workshops across the country shows an encouraging trend in modern rehabilitation. For example, out of the approximately 30,000 handicapped persons trained and employed in the Goodwill Industries workshops in the U.S.A. during 1956, over 10,000 went on to regular employment at the going wage rate in outside industry.

This remarkable achievement had a twofold benefit to the handicapped and the taxpayer. It brought many handicapped persons back into the mainstream of living; instead of living a life of stagnant uselessness and frustration they became useful, self-respecting citizens. It proved beyond all doubt that the taxpayers benefited in that the 30,000 workers in Goodwill Industries paid over $1,700,000 in income taxes to the U.S. government during 1956. If these people had not been trained for employment they would have cost the taxpayers an estimated $18,000,000 in public assistance.

Our objective is to develop a similar worthwhile operation here, and from all indications, we are now certain that it not only can but will be a successful project. However, it must be realized that its success will depend on community support for after all it is a community responsibility.

There is no doubt in our minds as to the part the community is willing to play in helping us "get on our feet" as witness the splendid response to our appeal for discarded articles as already mentioned. To all those who have helped goes the satisfaction of knowing that some handicapped person feels that someone cares and that means a lot.

FRED R. F. BLAKENEY, Manager.

Benefit for Veterans

In view of the summer recess, it would be greatly appreciated by Pro Patria Branch, Canadian Legion, BESL, if you would accord space to draw to the attention of its members and other veterans concerned the benefits of the Education of Soldiers' Dependent Children Act.

This act is administered by a commission of three veterans, with the deputy minister of education as chairman. It provides financial assistance for the children of veterans who may experience difficulty in keeping their children in high school in Grades IX to XII.

In order to be eligible for a grant the parent or guardian upon whose war service assistance is sought must have been a resident of British Columbia for at least five years; also the student applicant must have attained Grade IX standing before reaching the age of 16 years.

Application forms may be secured from the office of the deputy minister of education and should be filed at once.

C. A. GILL,
Secretary, Pro Patria Branch,
Canadian Legion, BESL.

Young Man Jailed 'For His Own Sake'

A jail term of six months, a three-month jail sentence indeterminate in Oakalla was also imposed by Magistrate Young Offender's Unit was Hall on George Lee, 27, of 759 handed down yesterday to Queens.

Lee, whose defence counsel was James Proudfoot, was sentenced for possession of stolen goods. These were blankets taken from parked cars in the case of which had already been admitted by Cyril Morgan, now serving sentence.

"I feel," said the magistrate, "that something was put over on this accused by his companions, and that he didn't have the sense or the courage to deal with it."

Magistrate Henry C. Hall said in sentencing Cameron: "This young man is badly in need of discipline. It is in the best of his own interest that I believe a moderate sentence will be sufficient warning."

"If he will travel with bad companions, he must take the consequences. In this case I believe a moderate sentence will be sufficient warning."

Province Studies Its Arts

For the first time in Canada, a province-wide conference of leaders in the fields of arts and crafts will be held to provide "a comprehensive and factual picture of the state of the arts in B.C."

The British Columbia Arts Resources conference will be held at the University of British Columbia, Aug. 15 to 17, and will be the first in an annual series of such meetings.

Victoria representatives will be Colin Graham, Miss Anne Adamson and Miss Violet E. Ashdown.

Honorary chairman and keynote speaker on opening day will be Dean G. C. Andrew of UBC. Sessional chairmen will be, for drama, Dorothy Somerset, Joy Coghill and Sidney Risk; for music, Mrs. Walter Hauschka, Dr. Ida Halpern, Jean Coulthard Adams, Audrey Piggott, Shepherd Munn and Lloyd Powell; for visual arts, Gordon Adaskin, Robert Davidson, William Reid and Frank Perry.

Shakespeare Tour Support Increases

Interest in the second annual tour to the Stratford Shakespearean Festival in Ontario has increased considerably in recent weeks, tour officials in Victoria said yesterday.

They announced that 14 persons have signed up for the $195 round trip, which leaves Victoria Aug. 17 and includes two plays, an opera, train fare and other services.

The number of travellers has doubled in the last two or three weeks.

Applications will be accepted up to Aug. 17 by Betty Le Gallais at 4-1308 or at the Canadian National ticket office, but officials urged that arrangements be made as soon as possible.

The plays are "Twelfth Night" and "Hamlet," and the opera is the North American premiere of Britten's "Turn of the Screw." Attendance at the CNE opening in Toronto and two tours are optional.

Movie Review

It's a Meredith Solo

By BRUCE LOWTHER

It's a long way from "Winter" to Tokyo, but ex-Broadway star Burgess Meredith makes the jump and in amusing style in "Joe Butterfly," which opened at the Odeon Theatre yesterday.

Meredith is as good in the title role, a Japanese con man, as Marlon Brando was as Sakini, an Okinawan con man, in "Teahouse of the August Moon."

The trouble with this movie is that the rest of the cast, leading men George Nader and Audie Murphy and character actors Keenan Wynn and Fred Clark, don't have the light comic touch that made "Teahouse" such a success.

Nader and friends have three days after the U.S. reached Tokyo to put out a victory issue of their army magazine.

They succeed because of Joe Butterfly's tricks, which even include the unearthing of Tokyo Rose. The tricks are when this movie is at its best, with Meredith rasping out his credo:

"I buy, I sell, top price, over deal. Ah, so!" And so on.

Susie, a two-ton elephant, arrived in Nanaimo yesterday and is now at the new Paul Hertel zoo, about four miles north of Nanaimo. She was bought for about $3,500 from "Alberta Slim" Eric Edwards, a carnival operator of Regina, and is believed to be the only Canadian-owned elephant. Making friends with Susie is Elizabeth Anne Allen of Glen Lake, and Mr. Hertel stands nearby. (Nanaimo photo.)

IWA Seeks Support

More Parks Are Needed In Alberni

PORT ALBERNI — Support of the public in the IWA's proposed campaign for increased park facilities in this area, has been urged by John Squire, M.L.A., acting financial secretary of local 185.

Mr. Squire stated: "Fresh water and salt water beaches are slowly but surely falling under the hammer of real estate agents."

He said citizens should be aware that every little bay and nook in the Alberni Inlet is used for log storage purposes, with one exception, a small area set aside at the mouth of the Coleman Creek, 16 to 18 miles from Port Alberni by boat and approximately 40 miles by car.

Sport Fishermen Will Aid Survey

Provincial fisheries department will conduct a sport fishing survey Sunday, first of six to be made between now and early October.

Questionnaires will be distributed to sport fishermen at all popular sport fishing centres from Victoria through the inland waters to Campbell River. The fishermen will be asked to complete and return them to A. J. Whitmore, chief supervisor of fisheries, at Vancouver.

Blake Campbell, chief economist of the department, and his staff will cover the area by airplane making checks of the number of craft fishing, and other department personnel will be at popular fishing centres. The series of surveys, a department official said yesterday, is part of an overall plan to increase present knowledge of the extent of sport fishing and the catch, "now increasing very rapidly."

Way Seems Narrow But Leads to Life

This is another in a series of articles by Greater Victoria clergyman appearing weekly on The Daily Colonist, church paper.

By REV. W. J. WORMELL

Equilibrium Four-square Church. When the Pharisees reviled the man whose eyes the Lord had opened, saying, "Thou art His disciple, and we are Moses' disciples," they meant that he had been with Jesus and had learned of Him. A disciple is one who has given himself over to another to be taught and to follow the example of the teacher.

1. Its Privileges—The highest honor of the disciple is to have fellowship with the Master Himself. The greatest gift of the teacher is to reveal Himself. This was Christ's method after resurrection. It is His method, now through the Holy Spirit.

2. Its Conditions—The way to life is narrow but it leads to life abundantly. There must be cross-bearing—"Whoever does not bear his cross and come after Me, cannot be My disciple." (Luke 14:27.) There must be a continuing in His Word—"If ye continue in My word then ye are My disciples indeed." (John 8:31.) There is great need these days of continuing to learn of Christ. Continue in the love of His Word and you will continue in the power of it.

There must be fruit bearing—"Bear much fruit, so shall ye be My disciples." (John 15:8.) As the fruit of the Spirit was abundantly manifest in the life of Jesus (Gal. 5:22), so will it be in the lives of those who are disciples indeed.

3. How the Discipleship Is To Be Known by Others—"By this shall all men know that ye are My disciples, if ye have love one for another." (John 13:35.) Disciples may, and do, differ in many things, but if love to one another is lacking, even though we do not belong to the same sect, it is evidence that the love of God is not dwelling in us.

4. A Question for Disciples—"Will ye also be His disciples?" (John 9:27.) He who hath opened our eyes, redeemed us by His Blood, called us by His grace, and taught us by His Spirit, is surely worthy to be commended to others. "Will ye also be His disciples?"

Oregon Cleric to Preach

An annual visitor to Victoria and Christ Church Cathedral for the past 25 years, Rt. Rev. W. P. Remington, former Bishop of Eastern Oregon, will preach at 11 a.m. matins in the Cathedral tomorrow.

Rev. Edward W. Scott, rector of St. Jude's Church, Winnipeg, will preach at both services at St. John's Anglican Church tomorrow and for the three succeeding Sundays in the absence of Canon George Biddle.

Mr. Scott, a graduate of Anglican Theological College, Vancouver, is on the council for social services of the general synod of the Anglican Church of Canada.

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Rev. Ian G. Borrie, minister since 1951 of a church in Wanganui, New Zealand, will be preacher tomorrow.

Mr. Borrie is on his way back to New Zealand after year's leave of absence from his congregation, studying at Union Theological Seminary, New York.

Pansies Aren't So Soft

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

With the wide range of colors available now, the old-fashioned pansy must rank among our most treasured bedding plants.

The named and self-colored kinds, coming from Switzerland, in particular, make it possible to work out just about any desired color combination in the pansy beds.

To obtain healthy plants which never fail to produce an abundance of large, beautifully marked blooms, I sow my seeds in boxes in a cold frame during the latter part of July or early August, using a rather sandy soil with a bit of leaf mold mixed in.

I prefer the cold frame to the open ground only because it is easier to give the seedling plants the mottled or dappled shade they like by making a frame cover of ordinary laths spaced 1½ inches apart.

When the plants are large enough to handle, they are transplanted, again into boxes, but two inches apart this time to give them enough elbow room for proper development.

Even in the shelter of the cold frame they will take quite a bit of water through the summer, and a tiny pinch of permanganate of potash in the watering can helps to keep down diseases among the baby plants.

One tiny enough to the pansy plants to color the solution a pale pink.

Pansies are a lot harder than most people suppose, and I find they stand up under the cold of winter surprisingly well, but only when the soil drainage is beyond reproach.

For this reason—so water cannot stand over the roots—I plant mine out in early October into a nursery bed which is raised slightly above the surrounding ground.

The plants are set in six inches apart, and remain outdoors until late March or early April, when they are transplanted again to their flowering quarters.

They could, of course, be wintered in the cold frame, safe from driving rain, but it seems to me that I get sturdier specimens when they spend the winter in the open. Besides, I need my limited frame space for the more perishable plants.

In their flowering quarters, pansies like a rather coarse-textured, lumpy routine medium, which I secure by digging in coarse sand or vermiculite and half-rotted leafmould to my ordinary loamy garden soil.

Bone meal is added, one cupful per square yard of pansy bed, and just scratched into the top two inches of soil.

I have experimented from time to time with the propagation of pansies by cuttings—taken from the more exceptional specimens which turn up from a package of mixed seed.

These pansy cuttings seem to root quite easily, and I have never had any trouble in raising plants this way, but the stems were always weaker and the blooms inferior to those raised from July-sown seed.

holding an "open house" at the hall one night before the polling date.

Chairman Joseph Casey said he would approach the employees' association to see if members could be available to demonstrate space restrictions in the old hall.

Reeve Arthur Ash, who is strongly opposed to erection of "a $225,000 permanent monument" while the possibility of amalgamation is still on the horizon, said he would state his case from the platform.

Call for tenders has been issued for submission to council by the deadline of 5 p.m., Aug. 15. That evening council members will consult with the architects to determine a tender suitable for the recommendation, should the by-

Before the campaign was mapped, the architects discussed detailed plans of the proposed structure with the committee.

The architects, Henry Whittaker and Donald Wagg, described the building as flexible in both interior and exterior.

For future requirements, they said, a third storey could be added to the addition and the old hall could be eventually torn down to make room for another addition. Plans call for a mahogany-paneled council chamber with sufficient space to seat a public gallery of at least 50.

Municipal offices and police department would be located in the addition with most of the present structure taken over by the engineering department with the balance of space used for storage.

4♠ All Pass

Opening lead: ♠8

There is something frustrating about not being able to make a profit when you are dealt a big hand, but the best South could do was break even. South won the diamond jack and returned a club. Declarer won and tried his only hope, but the ace and king of spades failed to drop the queen. The defender collected two diamonds, one spade and one club and declarer offset the 100 point penalty with his 100 honors.

The fault in the bidding of this deal certainly did not lie in South's decision to open with a game-forcing bid. It resulted from defects in the clumsy two-forcing convention which uses two no-trump as the bid to deny strength. The bidding was at the game level before South had gleaned any information whatever about his partner's hand, other than the sad news that it wasn't very good. Not knowing whether North had anything in diamonds, South elected to bid for game at spades.

Using an artificial two-club bid as the game-forcing opener solves this problem. South would bid two clubs to announce a big hand; North responds two diamonds to deny as much as seven points. South now shows his real suit, and North, having already declared his poverty, is now able to describe what little he has by bidding three diamonds. South rebids his spades and North then bids three no-trump to tell partner that he has no support for the spade suit. Having gained much more information about his partner's hand, South is able to pass the three no-trump bid.

To make three no-trump, North does not need to win a trick in his own hand. His diamond strength is sufficient to insure that the opponents can win no more than three tricks in that suit. By establishing South's trumps, nine tricks can't be stopped.

WINNING POINTS
However you use the rest of the two bids—and they can be valuably employed elsewhere—you will profit if you use the artificial opening bid of two clubs as your big game-forcing opener.

Atlas Steel Makes Rally At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—The increase in the Montreal stock exchanges ended moderate trading Friday.

Among steel, Atlas was up a point to 21½ as Steel of Canada lost an equal amount at 68½. In base metals Aluminum dropped a point at 47 while Consolidated Smelters slipped ½ to 22. Trans Mountain pushed up 3 points to 103½ and Inter-Provincial Pipe Lines gained a point at 53.

In the refining group McGill was down ½ to 81½ while B.A. eased ½ to 36.

Among utilities, Calgary Power added ½ to 77. In new points Great Lakes fell ½ to 40½ and Fraser at 26 was down ½ while Abitibi firmed an equal amount at 30½.

Mineral and base metals had mixed trading. Copper was stronger. Home Oil at 21 and the B stock at 20½ each firmed ½ while Pacific Petroleum lost ½ to 31½. Canadian Devonian slipped 15 cents to 82½.

Pipeline in Demand

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market was irregular Friday in moderate trading. Industrial and utility stocks were mixed but the western oil index lost nearly one-half point.

Trans Mountain Pipe Line made a small recovery in its industrial climbing four points to 103½. Chrysler and International Paper each lost three points.

Senior base metals were generally fractionally higher. Brunswick gained 40 cents at 56½ in juniors. Ironmums gained ground as did coppers.

Jolt for Chrysler

NEW YORK (AP)—Weekend profit-taking brought a moderate decline into the stock market.

Trading lightened and support appeared before closing time. It lifted many issues from their early lows.

Chrysler was jolted by a loss of more than 2 points in active trading. Ford and General Motors eased with it.

Bethlehem reporting a new top in volume and net profit for the first half, was depressed by a fraction in a generally lower market for steel shares. Oil slipped fractions to more than a point lower with a few exceptions, notably Richmond, up more than 2 points.

Railroad issues, recent features with an average rising to a new high since mid-January, were sold. Their losses extended to 2 points in Western Mainland and included a loss of more than a point in New York Central which showed a sharp reduction in earnings.

Coppers Featured

VANCOUVER—In the most active session of the week, Toronto was the busiest trader. Over 140,000 shares changed hands with the close at 65 cents, up 10 cents from the previous session.

Cowichan Copper also rallied at 1.63 but Bethlehem was dull at 1.60.

These were mainly unchanged but United showed firmness at 1.80 and Starwell was sought at 1.65. Small losses were recorded in Fort St. John, Charter, Pacific and New Can.

Powell River was off 30 cents at 3.91, but Woodward Stores finished ahead at 3.13 after making a new high of 3.14.

U.K. Bonds Gain

LONDON (Reuters)—Gil- edged securities were the main feature of a generally quiet stock market. Widespread gains were established in gilts while small losses predominated on the industrial market.

Montreal Bonds

MONTREAL (CP)—Short and mid-term government issues were quiet in a firmer tone on Montreal bond markets. Loans were unchanged and provincial issues were firm and quiet. Corporates were unchanged.

BIG INCREASE

South Africa's agricultural production was valued at 347,000 in 1956-57, against 317,407, 000 in 1955.

Grain Prices

Winnipeg (CP)—Unfavorable crop reports prompted demand for coarse grains but trading was quiet.

Commercial demand was not aggressive and there were no reports of overseas business in Canadian coarse grains.

Oats and barley trading showed domestic orders. International interests were buyers of flax and there was some U.S. selling.

Rye trading was erratic with some demand from commission houses and U.S. interests.

Wheat prices were mixed. Hard red winter wheat was up 1 cent to 1.10½. Soft red winter wheat was up 1 cent to 1.08½. Hard red spring wheat was up 1 cent to 1.06½. Soft red spring wheat was up 1 cent to 1.04½.

Barley prices were mixed. Two row barley was up 1 cent to 1.06½. Four row barley was up 1 cent to 1.04½.

Oats prices were mixed. White oats were up 1 cent to 1.06½. Red oats were up 1 cent to 1.04½.

Flax prices were mixed. Flax seed was up 1 cent to 1.06½. Flax straw was up 1 cent to 1.04½.

Clearings Run Low

Clearings at the Victoria Clearing House are continuing to run about 10 per cent lower than a year ago, the settlement of labor disputes in the civil service and lumber industries not having had the expected effect of stabilizing business.

Total cheques cleared through the house for the week ending July 25 were $9,492,159 against $10,404,845 in the corresponding week of 1956.

It is expected the bonds will be ready for issue to the public.

A tariff of 10½ cents a barrel on Venezuelan crude oil—the same as the United States applies to Canadian oil imports—would make the Montreal area competitive to Canadian production.

The statement is contained in a report made by Walter L. Levy Inc., the New York specialist firm of petroleum consultants, recently commissioned by an independent group of Canadian oil producers to study potential markets.

The Montreal refineries use 200,000 barrels a day of Venezuelan crude, which is shipped by tanker to Portland, Maine, and then by pipeline to Montreal.

The cost of laying down Venezuelan crude in Montreal is estimated to be 10½ cents a barrel less than it would be for Canadian crude.

Commenting on the report, S. P. King, general manager of Merrill Petroleum, one of the firms which paid $30,000 for the study, said the Canadian oil industry needed the Montreal market to prevent its being stunted by lack of demand.

If new markets are not made available Mr. King said new money for exploration would dry up, because the rate of investment would become so puny as to be unattractive to investment capital.

To supply Canadian crude to the Montreal area a new trans-Canada pipeline would be required, but Mr. King thought that Inter-Provincial which runs from Alberta to Toronto would probably build the line if guaranteed the Montreal market.

Clearings Run Low

Clearings at the Victoria Clearing House are continuing to run about 10 per cent lower than a year ago, the settlement of labor disputes in the civil service and lumber industries not having had the expected effect of stabilizing business.

Total cheques cleared through the house for the week ending July 25 were $9,492,159 against $10,404,845 in the corresponding week of 1956.

Boy Drives Over Cliff to Death After Wild Ride in Stolen Car

Three Friends Badly Injured

One Victoria boy was killed and three others injured, two seriously, when a station wagon being chased by police roared across Daines Road from the end of Cook and plunged with a grinding crash 40 feet over the cliff to the beach below early yesterday.

The dead boy is Gunnar Stenbeck, 15, son of Mrs. H. Stenbeck, 2100 Lonsdale.

GUNNAR STENBECK

Beginning of Chase

Chronologically, the incident at sports of the kind is huge at 11:30 a.m. when a report came in from a Victoria city police officer that a station wagon was being chased by police. The chase began at the intersection of Cook and Daines Roads, where the station wagon was being chased by a police car. The chase continued for some time before the station wagon crashed over the cliff.

Shortly after 4 a.m. the officer on duty at the police station saw a station wagon being chased by a police car. The chase continued for some time before the station wagon crashed over the cliff.

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

As expected, the issue of pay-as-you-see television is about to become lost in the U.S. Congress. Representative Emanuel Celler, a New York Democrat and chairman of the House Judiciary committee, has demanded that any decision on pay-TV be left to Congress. He says "it is impossible to expect..."

However, Celler's bill to ban pay TV has become lost in the House. It is a shame that a bill which means a head lock now and probably for several years...

New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers outfielders meet in a special short ball game on CBS this morning (starting time is either 10:30 or 10:55). That includes everybody from Home Run Baker to Joe Dimaggio. Jimmy Durante's return is the famous last show by Carmen Miranda before her death. These movies are "Passport to Pimlico" and "In Which We Serve".

Sponsor conflicts and they can be complicated, make up one reason why shows have sponsor troubles. For Sullivan's new television promotion campaign, when another firm company bought part of his show. End of promotion campaign. A glass company wanted to buy Mr. Adams and Eve but the firm supplies General Motors and Ford has the show just before Adams and Eve. Worst of all a toothpaste company pulled out of several shows it sponsored with a cigarette firm because it came up with a toothpaste which allegedly removed nicotine stains.
